Career Services Celebrates...

To begin the month of November, there will be a National Career Development Month Kick-Off Celebration Picnic on Monday, November 3, 2008 at noon on the Student Center Patio. This picnic will be jam packed with Career Services information, free food, and t-shirts while they last!! The picnic will be the first opportunity to meet with recruiters from Kamatics.

Kamatics Corporation, a subsidiary of Kaman Corporation, a highly diversified company out of Bloomfield, CT, will be sponsoring National Career Development Month this year. Kamatics is a leader in the design and manufacture of high technology mechanical products, such as self-lubricated bearings and driveline couplings, used in aviation, marine, hydropower and other industrial applications. Kamatics number one mission is to get in contact with business majors with lean product management courses. They offer superior benefits including 100% tuition reimbursement, 401(k) with employer match, pension, paid vacation, sick time, holiday shutdown, employee stock purchase plan, and more. To learn more information about this company or to get in touch with them, visit their web site at www.kaman.com. Students can also search for Kamatics on Careerbuilder.com or Monster.com, or contact the HR department directly to inquire about open positions, at (860) 243-9704. They are always looking for applications, manufacturing and quality engineers, CNC machinists, and Quality Assurance professionals.

Book of the Month

Since November is national career development month what better book to choose to highlight this month than, America's Top 300 Jobs by JIST Publishing. This reference book is full of information about different jobs, their working conditions, the training that is required, other qualifications and advancement, earnings, job outlook, and other important professional topics. It gives you a full understanding about the job that you are interested in.

America's Top 300 Jobs include the following four highlighted sections – The Exploring Career Options section enables you to search descriptions for each occupation. The Job Seeking section allows you to identify jobs that appeal to you and research required skills, pay, and job details. The Employers section helps employers obtain information for writing job descriptions, establishing salary ranges, and knowing what to look for when interviewing possible employees. The Counselors, Instructors, and other Career Specialist section can use this book to receive an up-to-date, reliable resource for information, which can be used by anyone working in a career related field. In addition to all this information, this book also contains a special section on growth projections for the 500 most popular jobs in the United States.

lent reputation of Eastern's Social Work and Liberal Arts Programs. The unique thing about this Open House is that each graduate school is able to describe its MSW Program in an informal setting with interested students. Students are able to compare and contrast each opportunity within each graduate school and find what works best for them. Students in any major who are interested in pursuing an MSW degree following graduation are encouraged to attend.

Career Jeopardy

Do you like game shows? Do you think you know it all when it comes to Career Development? Stop by and either watch or participate in Career Jeopardy on November 12th from 12pm to 1pm on the Student Center food court stage. Career Jeopardy will enable you to test your Career Development knowledge. Contestants will be chosen from the audience to participate in this entertaining event and questions will be asked about Career Services related topics with the chance to win great prizes. Make sure you make it over to the Student Center to participate in Career Jeopardy for fun and prizes during your lunch break!!!
